Rules:

This book is a hard one to complete, but do as much as you can.

If you can't make it to all the sites, do some of the activities at home and try to incorporate movement in to your life as much as possible.

These parks are here for movement and relaxation. Try both and see how you feel at the end of the day.

Let's Move!

Safely...

Before exercising be sure to stretch and eat something healthy. Remember, water is a necessary part of every day, with or without exercise... so drink lots of it!

Be sure to dress for the weather:

If it's cold, wear layers.

If it's hot, make sure not to push yourself too hard.

Always make sure you have the right equipment. If you're riding a bike; wear a helmet.

Rivers and streams can be dangerous. Be sure to stay one body length away from them at all times.

Great Falls Park

"A field of water betrays the spirit that is in the air. It is continually receiving new life and motion from above. It is intermediate between land and sky." -Henry David Thoreau

Play Outside

The three Falls overlooks are within a two to ten minute walk from the Visitor Center. The River Trail offers a great view of the Potomac River. This trail can be accessed downstream from Overlook 3.

Activities:

- Bicycling
- Bird Watching
- Boating
- Hiking
- Horseback riding
- Fishing

Clara Barton

Clara Barton dedicated her life and energies to helping others in times of need - both home and abroad, in peacetime as well as during military emergencies. Glen Echo was her home the last 15 years of her life.

Clara Barton spent a lot of her time traveling by foot. A number of spots she used to visit in Glen Echo still exist today.

Try out this scavenger hunt to see what she did. Start at her house:

Walk across the bridge to Glen Echo.
Look to your right to see the old trolley bridge.

From the bridge walk into Glen Echo and search for the old stone tower.

Now you're here, explore Glen Echo!

Glen Echo

Glen Echo Park was established as a Chautauqua retreat in 1891. The Spanish Ballroom was, and still is, a dance hall. It was built in 1933. These days, the Spanish Ballroom draws hundreds of people each week for many different types of dances, including swing, ballroom, salsa and more.

Dance at Home!

1. Choose some music that has a good clear beat. The music you choose should last for 10 to 20 minutes.
2. Start by walking in place to the music to warm up. If you do not know any dance moves, you can jog in place, jump forward and backward, hop on one foot and then on the other, and do jumping jacks.
3. Put them all together in a sequence that you can repeat.
4. Continue to add variety and challenge to your dance routine and soon you will look forward to your afterschool dance session.

Turkey Run Park

"I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately..." -Walden's Pond, Henry David Thoreau

Turkey Run Park contains over 700 acres of mostly forested land. Discover shaded picnic areas, access to miles of hiking trails - including the Potomac Heritage National Scenic Trail, and many plants and animals.

As you hike the Potomac Heritage Trail, look around. How many different kinds of plants can you spot? Do you see any animals? What is the weather like? Take time to really stop and look at what's around you.

The Netherlands Carillon

"So many voices in our troubled world are still unheard." - Queen Juliana

The Netherlands Carillon is a gift from the Dutch people in honor of American aid received during and after World War II. This beautiful carillon stands as a symbol of friendship between the two countries.

The area around the Carillon is home to a variety of different animals. We share these grounds with rabbits, birds, snakes, foxes, deer, squirrels, raccoons, and countless other animals.

What type of animals can be found in bronze at the base of the Carillon?

What did you see today? Draw a picture, or attach a photo.

U.S. Marine Corps War Memorial

"Uncommon valor was a common virtue"

-Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz

The United States Marine Corps War Memorial stands as a symbol of this grateful nation's esteem for the honored dead of the U.S. Marine Corps. While the statue depicts one of the most famous events of World War II, the memorial is dedicated to all Marines who have given their lives in the defense of the United States since 1775.

Be Fit! Be Active!

How far is the U.S. Marine Corps War Memorial from the Netherlands Carillon? Count your steps.

In the real world it is roughly 6,519 miles from Amsterdam, the Netherlands to Iwo Jima, Japan... here it only took you 6 minutes to walk between the two!

A big part of being a Marine is staying fit. Run a mile, how long does it take you?

Women in Military Service for America Memorial

This memorial recognizes all women who have served in or with the United States Armed Forces—past, present and future. It documents the experiences of these women and tells their stories of service, sacrifice and achievement. The Women's Memorial makes their contributions a visible part of history.

Make a Poem

Fill in the blanks with an appropriate word, then put them together to create a poetic phrase.

	Adjective	Adjective	Verb	Verb	Noun
The Fountain
The Memorial
The Memorial Bridge
The Statues

How many steps to the top of the memorial?

Arlington House

Arlington House is the Robert E. Lee Memorial. It was the residence of Robert E. Lee and his family before the Civil War. The house and grounds have served many purposes over the last two hundred years: a family home for the Lees, a plantation estate and home to 63 slaves, a monument honoring George Washington, a military headquarters, a community for emancipated slaves, and a national cemetery.

In the Garden

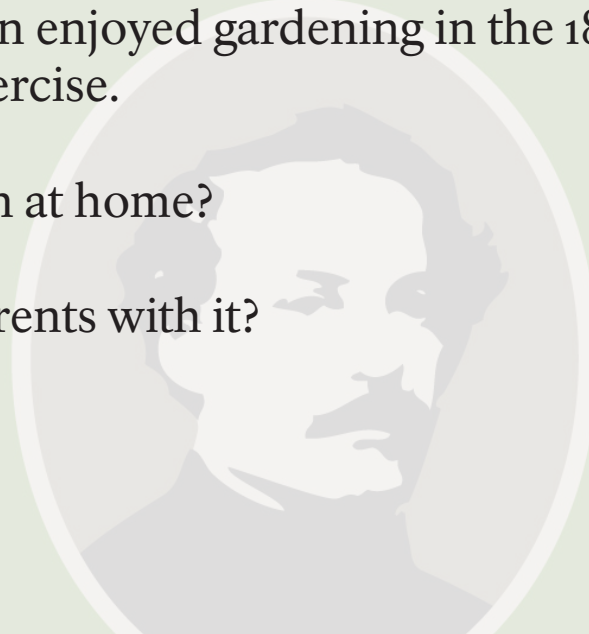

Walk through the garden, located on the south side of Arlington House. Sketch the garden and then trace the path you took.

Both women and men enjoyed gardening in the 1850s. It was a way to relax and good exercise.

Do you have a garden at home?

Do you help your parents with it?

Fort Marcy

"We have a profound, a fundamental need for areas of wilderness—a need that is not only recreational, but spiritual, educational, scientific, essential to a true understanding of ourselves, our culture, our own natures, and our place in all nature." – Howard Zahniser, 1963

Some of the best existing earthen ramparts (defensive walls) can be found at this Civil War site. The fort was completed in 1862 and still has cannons on its ground. Unfortunately, they are not original.

Picnicking

Civil War soldier food was typically very simple. It often consisting of meat, coffee, sugar and hardtack - a type of dried biscuit.

What did you eat today?

Go for a run, walk or jog around Fort Marcy.

Fort Hunt Park

Today, the sights and sounds of picnickers camouflage the hidden history of this site. What occurred on this site frequently mirrored the political and social history of the United States. From the colonial era to the present, this site has been used as part of George Washington's farm, a Spanish-American War coastal fortification, and the setting for top-secret WWII military intelligence operations, as well as a popular picnic area along the George Washington Memorial Parkway.

Ready- Aim- Run

Go to the batteries near the entrance gate.

Start by walking to the first battery you see.

At the first battery, start to jog to the second.

Upon reaching the second battery run as fast as you can to the third. Working guns took a lot of time and speed. You are now standing where men did during the Spanish- American War, and probably just as out of breath!

Play a Game of Baseball!

Lyndon Baines Johnson Memorial Grove-on-the-Potomac

"If future generations are to remember us with gratitude rather than contempt, we must leave them something more than the miracles of technology. We must leave them a glimpse of the world as it was in the beginning, not just after we got through with it." -President Lyndon Johnson when he signed the Wilderness Act on September 3, 1964.

Lyndon Baines Johnson and his wife came to this spot to think and enjoy the outdoors. Being a U.S. President is a stressful job. LBJ believed in the restorative power of relaxing in nature.

It's hard to slow down but try this:

Have your friend time you to sit still for ten minutes. Close your eyes; listen to the world around you. Concentrate on your breathing. Slowly open your eyes, look at what's around you like it's the first time. Let your thoughts go.

Upon completing this exercise, in a few words write down how you feel.

Dyke Marsh Wildlife Preserve

"There is nothing in which the birds differ more from man than the way in which they can build and yet leave a landscape as it was before." -Robert Lynd

Flying High

Walk down the Haul Road and keep your eyes and ears open for our feathered friends. Nearly 300 species of birds have been observed in Dyke Marsh Wildlife Preserve.

A few things to look for on a bird-watching walk:

1. Different kinds of birds
2. Nests and eggs
3. Beak shapes and bird feet

The closer you look, the more you learn...

Beak shapes show what a birds eats; long or hooked beaks for eating other animals, short and stout cone shapes to crack seeds. Feet have many different purposes like perching on twigs, running, clinging to trees, grasping food and, swimming, while color lets birds either blend in with the environment or stand out.

Jones Point Park

The lighthouse was built in 1856 in order to keep ships from sinking in the Potomac. While visiting the lighthouse be sure to look for one of the original corner stones of D.C. which was put in place in 1791.

Fly a Kite!

There is a field at Jones Point. Bring a soccer ball and play around.

If you don't have a ball try these:

Jump around
Hop on one foot
Stand up, sit down
Do jumping jacks
Try scissor jumps
Do some stretches
Do big and little arm circles
March in place slapping hands and knees.

Journal

The lighthouse keeper kept detailed journals, now it's your turn!

Theodore Roosevelt Island

Theodore Roosevelt Island offers easy nature walks, a presidential monument and views of the Potomac and Washington, D.C.

One of Theodore Roosevelt's greatest legacies was his dedication to conservation. Today, this island stands as a memorial to the outdoorsman, naturalist, and visionary who was our 26th President.

Walk around to find your story

Next time you go for a walk, bring along a camera.

Record your visit. Look for something out of the ordinary; something that could give even the person with you a different way of seeing the same things.

When you print your pictures, lay them all out and arrange them in different ways. What story do they tell?

When you have the order you like, tape or glue them to a big sheet of paper.

Mount Vernon Trail

In 1973, the National Park Service constructed the Mount Vernon Trail along the Potomac River. With the river as your companion, you can run, ride, or walk along this 18-mile trail stretching from Mount Vernon Estate to Theodore Roosevelt Island. Along the trail, enjoy the views of the Potomac River, picnic at Riverside Park or Belle Haven Park, visit the fortifications at Fort Hunt Park, or take a short walk into Dyke Marsh Wildlife Preserve.

As you move, how many of these can you spot?

What to Bring:

- Sun protection: hat, sunscreen and, sunglasses
- Healthy snacks
- Lots of water
- Small first aid kit

For a bike trip, add these items:

- Helmet
- Tire pump, patch kit and tire levers
- You might also want to bring a camera
